Correction

The article on the winners of the Appomattox Golf Tournament last week was correct. Dick Bass, with a 77, was the winner of the Men's Handicap Tournament. The headline, which named Vernon Bryant as winner, was incorrect. The TIMES-VIRGINIAN regrets the error, but is happy that Appomattox has so many good golfers, and that a fine tournament was played.

A magic world is a lovely book And all you have to do is look; And if you read the pages through The magic world belongs to you.

Appomattox County Library suggests for your fall reading two "Brand new books" which will bring real entertainment to your long evenings. They are The Living Reed by Pearl Buck and The Last Love by Thomas Costain.

Pearl Buck, the distinguished author, winner of both the Nobel and Pulitzer Prizes, has given to us in The Livin Reed one of her finest novels. It is the sweeping story of three generations of the KIM family who dedicate themselves to the salvation of their homeland, Korea. The book deals with the history of this great country from the conquest by Japan in the 19th century to the landing of the American troops midway in the 20th century.

But above all else it is the — the love of man for woman, — the love of parent for child, — the love of country for its sons and their sons' sons — that makes this story of a land of contrasts unforgettable.

Mrs. Buck, now 70 years old, resides on a dairy farm in Pennsylvania.

The Last Love by Thomas Costain is a new historical novel based on the stormy career of Napoleon Bonaparte. Even in exile on the rocky island of St. Helena, the former emperor was a center of controversy.

A new novel by Costain is always welcomed but this one promises to be better accepted than that of the Silver Chalice. The story of Napoleon's last days at St. Helena are made bearable by Betsy Balcombe, the pretty spirited young English girl who acted as his interpreter in French. Other titles which remain popular to the reading public of Appomattox are: Seven Days In May by Fletcher Knebel; The Shoes of the Fisherman by Morris West; Joy in the Morning by Betty Smith.

O'her new titles are being ordered — for a real fall "pick-up" come by for a visit to the newly painted and decorated County Library — the library is open Monday through Fridays 9 a.m. — 4 p.m.

Never insist on the "right of way". You may have the legal right, but you may not live to prove it.
